

RICHARD ONG

ASSOCIATE (CORPORATE & COMMERCIAL)

I studied law because I was interested in identifying legal issues and in turn generating sensible solutions. Whilst heading up the corporate and commercial team here at S&A, I have made use of my broad experience across both litigious and transactional matters to assist my clients in addressing the most complex of legal issues.

RECENT EXPERIENCE

Richard is an astute corporate and commercial lawyer with expertise in litigation, transactions, insolvency and restructuring, debt recovery and intellectual property. Richard graduated from the University of Sydney with a degree in Science majoring in Anatomy and Histology. He completed a postgraduate degree in Law, graduating with Honours, from Macquarie University in 2015.

Richard has worked at Clayton Utz and Curwoods Lawyers, gaining broad exposure to banking and finance, as well as commercial insurance litigation. Today, Richard has extensive experience advising and acting in relation to contractual disputes, misleading and deceptive conduct claims, statutory demands, winding up applications, debt recovery and restructuring.

Richard also has a deep understanding of litigation procedure as a result of his time spent acting in matters within the Supreme Court and the Federal Court jurisdictions, and appellate jurisdictions in both the Court of Appeal of the Supreme Court of NSW and the Full Federal Court.

Richard's clients include publicly listed and privately-owned corporations, high net worth individuals, insurers and insolvency practitioners.
